

Mark Twain's real name was Samuel Langhorne Clemens. When he was four, his family moved to the small town of Hannibal on the Mississippi River, where his father opened a grocery store. He spent his childhood watching the giant lumber rafts and the steamboats on the river. When he was twelve, his father died, and Sam left school to do odd jobs to earn money for his family.

At 13 he became a printer's apprentice. He began writing for local newspapers. For almost four years he worked as a river-pilot on the local steamboats. Later he remembered those years as the most carefree of his life. After trying his luck next as a gold miner, he became a full-time writer using the pen name Mark Twain, a phrase from his steamboat days. It was the call made by the pilot when the boat was in safe water, indicating a depth of two (or twain) fathoms (about four metres).

Mark Twain was an excellent storyteller and wrote in a brilliantly funny way about the Southern way of life. In Tom Sawyer (1876) and The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn (1884) he painted a wonderful picture of life on and around the Mississippi, describing it exactly as the boys in the story would see it. Many of the people and places in these stories are from the years when Mark Twain was a boy in Hannibal (Hannibal is the town of St Petersburg in his stories). He wrote many other novels and also a book about his travels.

The great American novelist and Nobel Prize winner Ernest Hemingway once wrote in an essay: All modern American literature comes from one book by Mark Twain called Huckleberry Finn.

grocery: food store
lumber: timber, wood
raft: flatboat

odd: unusual, strange
pilot: navigator, guide carefree: untroubled

phrase: expression
depth: deepness
fathoms: measures

WHAT DOESN'T BELONG IN THE SERIES?

small	brilliant	little	tiny	unimportant giant	large	great	almost	huge real	true	actual	local	existent change	move	travel	alter	stay store	warehouse	shop	grocery	steamboat novel	travel	trip	journey	voyage carefree	untroubled	peaceful	unworried	exactly phrase	sentence	odd	expression	saying safe	funny	witty	humorous	amusing author	novelist	storyteller	writer	miner way	style	kind	pilot	system contemporary	modern	deep	up-to-date	recent

WHAT ARE / WERE THEIR JOBS? UNDERLINE:

Mark Twain
Joe Biden
Taylor Swift
Rowan Atkinson
Ernest Hemingway
Albert Einstein

painter
 politician
 housewife
 sailor
 surgeon
 physicist
 teacher
 locksmith
 singer
 comedian novelist
 bricklayer

writer
 novelist
 carpenter engineer
 dentist
 pastor
 policeman
 chef
 taxi driver
 pickpocket
 farmer
 undertaker