

Can you see Hugo?
 He's on his way to the hairdresser.
 He no longer likes his blonde quiff.
 He would prefer a brush cut.
 The hairdresser says:
 "A brush cut? That's not modern anymore!"
 So, Hugo wants a mohawk.
 But the hairdresser recommends a standing hairstyle.
 It suits Hugo's face well.
 In the mirror, he sees
 how his hairstyle is created.
 First the hair is cut.
 Then the wet hair is combed.
 Then the hair is blow-dried.
 A lot of gel is used to straighten the hair.
 Hugo likes his new hairstyle.
 His girlfriend Lucy will be amazed.
 Hugo proudly marches home.
 As he walks near a puddle,
 a car is roaring past.
 Water splashes into Hugo's face.
 Now his fantastic hairstyle is ruined.

A quiff ("Tolle") is a piece of hair on a man's forehead. It comes from the French word coiffe, which means a hairstyle.

CHANGE INTO THE PASSIVE (Wandle den aktiven Satz in einen passiven um, ohne den «Täter» zu nennen)

Look at the sentences:

She creates his new hairstyle. ... His new hairstyle is created. .....

Now do the same:

She cuts his hair. ....

She combs his wet hair. ....

Then she blow-dries his wet hair. ....

She uses a lot of gel to straighten the hair. ....

The car-driver ruins his fantastic hairstyle. ....

LOOK FOR SYNONYMS. Find one in each line:

In jeder Zeile findet sich ein Synonym zum fettgedruckten Wort links. Unterstreiche es:

fair-haired	chestnut	blonde	black	purple
up-to-date	ugly	beautiful	modern	fluent
create	forget	make	shine	sleep
praise	recommend	sink	whistle	creep
uncurl	hurry	blow	read	straighten
fanciful	loud	fantastic	rotten	possible
pool	ocean	sea	puddle	raindrop
lotion	gel	idea	bird	wheel
astonished	shy	bad	cheeky	amazed